

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: May 31, 2016

Contact: Melinda Slatt Melinda.slatt@UmatillaCounty.net

NACo Media Contact: David Jackson, djackson@naco.org

Commissioners participate in Western counties policy conference

WASHINGTON – Umatilla County Commissioners Larry Givens and Bill Elfering joined 500 county officials at the National Association of Counties' (NACo) Western Interstate Region (WIR) conference in Teton County, Jackson Hole, Wyo. from May 25 to 27. In partnership with Teton County and the Wyoming County Commissioners Association, the conference brought together nationally renowned experts, state and federal policy leaders and county officials from across the country.

With critical legislative and regulatory issues being debated in the nation's capital, county leaders discussed issues particularly important to Western communities. These issues included:

- Ensuring certainty in federal county payments through the Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILT) and Secure Rural Schools (SRS) programs
- New regulations proposed by the Bureau of Land Management that could substantially affect counties containing federal public lands, and
- Strengthening local infrastructure.

“Each county is unique, but we can learn from one another to address the challenges counties and residents face. It’s also important for Umatilla County to have a role in shaping key federal policies that affect us every day,” Elfering said. “Much of the information presented at the conference will help our efforts at home.”

WIR President Gordon Cruickshank, Valley County, Idaho commission chair, said, “Western county leaders work every day to pursue opportunities aimed at improving the quality of life for our residents. The issues facing Western counties are as diverse as the Western landscape itself. The WIR Conference focused on strengthening public and private sector partnerships to achieve results for our residents.”

The conference brought together national experts, state and federal policy leaders and county officials from across the country. Featured speakers included Wyoming Gov. Matt Mead, U.S. Interior Department Deputy Secretary Michael Connor, U.S. Bureau of Land Management Director Neil Kornze and Grand Teton National Park Superintendent David Vela.

Educational workshops focused on priority issues including:

- Responding to active shooter incidents (Elfering)
- Addressing local road safety (Givens)
- Managing public lands (Givens)
- Maintaining cybersecurity (Elfering)
- Creating fire-adapted communities (Givens)
- Fostering economic development (Elfering)

WIR serves as the counties' advocate for public policy issues affecting the West. WIR is affiliated with the NACo and is dedicated to the promotion of Western interests within NACo. These interests include public lands issues such as land use and conservation, community stability and economic development and the promotion of the traditional Western way of life.

WIR's membership consists of the state associations of counties in 15 Western states: Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

WIR is dedicated to promoting a clearer understanding of challenges facing county officials and serves as a valuable resource for exchanging information about Western county governments for NACo, Congress, the Administration and to county officials nationwide.

For more information about WIR, see the new video and visit <http://www.naco.org/WIR>.

#

The National Association of Counties (NACo) unites America's 3,069 county governments. Founded in 1935, NACo brings county officials together to advocate with a collective voice on national policy, exchange ideas and build new leadership skills, pursue transformational county solutions, enrich the public's understanding of county government and exercise exemplary leadership in public service. More information at: www.naco.org.